

CofC in Spoleto, Italy

CREATIVE WRITING, LITERATURE, AND FILM

May 15- June 12, 2019

PROGRAM FEE- $5,294*

*(Subject to change & does not include tuition)

Students take the following two courses:

ENGL 339: Writing about Travel, Art, and Place

ENGL 365: Imagining Medieval Italy in Modern Fiction and Film

The artistic ties the city of Charleston has with Spoleto are of inestimable value, and bringing students to our sister city to write and to study literature, and to meet with artists and writers living there, will inspire them to continue their education with an even greater sense of the transformative experiences of literary study, creativity, and travel. Students and faculty will be staying at a villa compound just outside Spoleto, where we share meals, hold readings, and spend quiet time writing and reading. One special group dinner each week will feature intensive and lively discussions of the craft of writing. In addition, we will be going on one three-day educational trip to Florence, where students will take guided tours of such important artistic and historical sites as the Uffizi Gallery, the Duomo, and the Galleria dell'Accademia; one evening will be spent in salon with an area painter, writer, and historian.
